

TRANSCRIPTION

I was born in born in South Africa, in a small country or town actually, in Tzaneen. I grew up in Tzaneen, Tzaneen is a very beautiful town, its, there's not many people staying there, mostly black people and they are very traditional. So, when you go to Tzaneen, you have to drive through the Magoebaskloof, (Um) the mountain, it's very dangerous to drive there if you don't know the road, but it's a very beautiful place, and I like to go home. I study drama and last year I went to Cape Town for my first year, and then I came back to Pretoria. This is much closer to Tzaneen, it's about four hours' drive to Tzaneen from Pretoria. So, I can go home much more often than last year and I like being at home with my family. I grew up with my mother and younger brother which is still in school, he is going to matriculate next year and I don't know what's he going to do or what his plans are, but I think he wants to become a sound engineer. I like being here in Pretoria, because I have lots of friends and I like my studies and I'm happy.

UNSCRIPTED SPEECH TRANSCRIBED BY KARINA LEMMER, ASSOCIATE
EDITOR SOUTH AFRICA, January 19, 2007